SENATE TABLES GORE RESOLUTION

Overwhelming Vote of 68 Ayes to 14 Noes--Senator Gallinger One of Those Who Voted No

(Special to The Herald)
Washington, March 3.—The senate today upheld the hands of President Wilson in the submarine situation by an overwhelming vote of 68 ayes to 14 noes. It laid on the table without debate the resolution of Senator Gore which if adopted would have withdrawn from Americans the right to take passage on armed belligerent ships.

Probably not since the European crisis became acute has there been such a throng in the senate wing as struggled for admission today. Every seat was filled, official and diplomatic Washington being well represented. The senate met at 11, one hour earlier than usual to get the necessary routine out of the way and clear the decks for action. Every member, not ill or excused was in his seat and the session was distinctly noticeable when Senator Stone as chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee secured recognition and moved that the senate proceed to consideration of the Gore resolution. Every preparation had been made to prevent debate. Senator Gore was refused permission to explain it. Senator James, Democrat, being recognized by the chairman to move to lay the Gore resolution on the table. Voting on the resolution began at 11:40. Just before the roll was ordered, Senator Gore had offered an amendment to his resolution to contain the warning that sinking of armed merchant ships with Americans on board "will be a cause of war." In that way warning Germany what the result will be but the motion to table was applied to the amendment as well as to the original resolution. Senator Gore created a sensation by voting to table his own resolution. Those who voted "no" were Senators Borah, Chamberlain, Clapp, Cummings, Fall, Gallinger, Grover, Jones, La Follette, McCumber, Norris, O'Gorman, Sherman and Weeks. Those absent and refusing to vote were Senators Brady, Bryan, Goss, Kenyon, Lippitt, Penrose, Robinson, Saulsbury, Schreyer, Smoot, Sutherland and Townsend.

Hoyt and M. A. Magilton. The man seriously injured was Hugh Choyenne. The wreck was the first of a serious character to occur here in some time. Train No. 4, third section, was lying on a side track waiting to be sent into the Albany yard when train No. 401 collided with it practically telescoping it. The accident occurred on the bridge at Livingston avenue. The cause of the accident is said to have been that the brakes on the train which collided with that on the side track refused to work. Traffic west was delayed by the wreckage. The locomotive causing the collision was demolished. The coach which was telescoped and which contained the bodies of the men who were killed was a mass of splintered wood. Jones, aged about 55 resided in Purling, N. Y.; Magilton, aged 40, Catskill, and Hoyt at East St. Louis, Ill.

BOND ISSUE DISCUSSED BEHIND CLOSED DOORS

City Council and Mayor Went Into Session as a Committee on a Whole to Talk Over $125,000.00 Loan to Be Made For City--Session of Little Importance Although Lengthy

After an hour's deliberation in which little business was transacted the City Council became a committee as a whole, to discuss the question of the proposed $125,000 bond issue. The room was cleared of all but members of the council and the mayor and for an hour the different phases of the proposed bond were discussed. This committee was presided over by Councilman Northwick as chairman, having been appointed by the mayor. Although no statement was made for publication it is believed that the question was satisfactorily settled and the facts will be made public at the next meeting, which will be held on Thursday evening, March 23.

Another important piece of action accomplished at the meeting was the failure of the order forbidding the sending of the flying squad to the assistance of near-by towns as was in force last year following the action of the council. This act was severely criticized by residents of Newington, Greenland, New Castle, Rye, Elliot and Kittery, and called for much hard feeling in these towns against the fire department, as it was not generally understood that the order was made by the council and that it referred only to the use of the chemical.

The meeting was called to order at 8:00 o'clock, Mayor Ladd presiding, all of the members of the council being present. The record of the last meeting was read and approved.

The report of the Board of Public Works, agreeing favorably to the creation of an electric sign and iron pole in front of the Western Union Telegraph office on Daniel street, was accepted and the necessary permission granted the company, on a motion offered by Councilman Hett.

The report of the City Physician was accepted and ordered placed on file on motion of Councilman Smart.

The report of the Board of Health for the year 1915 was accepted and placed on file, the motion having been offered by Councilman Hett.

The annual report of the Sinking Fund Commission was accepted and placed on file on motion of Councilman Sullivan.

Councilman Hett offered a resolution "that the Chief Engineer and the assistant engineers of the Portsmouth Fire Department be and hereby are instructed to keep the use of the auto-chemical fire apparatus within the city limits only."

Councilman Northwick offered a motion to lay the resolution on the table. On a roll call, five councilmen voted "no" and four voted "yes" the motion failing to carry.

Councilman Sullivan moved that the resolution pass. Councilman Hett then presented his reasons, stating that the auto-chemical fire apparatus within the city limits only.

much money in that many were learning to call the apparatus for slight fires, saving the expense attached to a general alarm, and that its value as a protection to the city against fire loss would be null if it was allowed to be sent out of town. He said that the city did not refuse to send aid to surrounding towns and would gladly send men and other apparatus to assist in the fighting of fire, but he considered it foolish to send the auto-chemical as long as the city owned but one. He pointed out that the officers of agents of insurance companies favored this resolution as it was in force last year.

Councilman Matthews opposed the passing of the resolution and said that the auto-chemical could do valuable work in preventing big fire loss in the near-by towns which would gain a great benefit if the slower apparatus was sent. He mentioned a possible fire at the Hotel Wentworth to which the auto-chemical could get within ten minutes after a call and that this might save that valuable property. He said it should be so unfortunate as to catch fire. As a safety measure Mr. Matthews suggested that on occasions where the auto-chemical responded to a call side alarms the "quick hitch" combination could be placed in readiness, the telephone calls transferred to that station, and good protection would be assured. He also stated that the passing of the resolution would likely give a poor impression of the good will of the city.

Councilman Wood also spoke against the passage of the resolution. He said that it was not a case of giving a good or poor impression which counted for anything, but that it was the duty of the city to do the right thing. He said in part, "I was at one time in favor of keeping the chemical within the city limits until I heard of the case last year of a woman in Greenland who called for assistance when her house was on fire and the chemical station had to refuse to respond because of the order of the council. This woman begged for help and assured them at the station that the chemical could save her property, but it burned flat and she lost everything she owned. Other towns cannot afford to keep such expensive apparatus. They are not at fault and it is the duty of this city to do what it can."

Councilman Smart said, "I was a member of the committee on fire department last year when that order was issued. I was in favor of it at the time and thought that it was the good of the city, but I have changed my mind since learning of the fire at Greenland and Rye to which the chemical might have been sent and done good service. This order was passed because of the call to a fire at New Fields, which was too far. But for the few calls we would receive from Rye, Greenland, Elliot, Kittery, New Castle, and Newington, the city in justice can but respond with its apparatus. When the order was issued last year the City of Dover notified the officers of the town of Elliot that they would gladly respond with their fire apparatus whenever needed. That was a disgrace to Portsmouth. I wish to go on record as opposed to this resolution."

The question was then put by Mayor Ladd and the Council rejected the resolution.

Councilman Sullivan moved that the council go into session as a committee as a whole for the consideration and discussion of the bond issue. The motion was carried. Councilman Northwick having been appointed chairman of the committee.

Following the closed session when the meeting was again resumed Councilman Smart asked for the report of the City Solicitor on the question of license money for theatres. The report was accepted on motion of Councilman Haynes. Councilman Matthews moved that the City Clerk be authorized to see that all the theatres in operation in the city were operating under their proper license whether they were paying the license tax or not. The motion was passed.

Councilman Wood offered a motion that the communication from the Board of Public Works placed on the table at the next meeting be considered. The motion was passed.

talked from individual concerns. After considerable discussion and the suggestion of several plans, the communication was accepted on motion of Councilman Wood. No definite action was taken.

On motions offered by councilmen Smart and Wood, the meeting adjourned at 10:30 until March 23.

ARRESTED TWENTY MINUTES AFTER DISCOVERY OF BREAK

George Coleman of Boston Entered the Offices of Dr. Jenkins and Attorney Smith of Congress Street, Committing Larceny.

Making two daylight office breaks within three hours and being arrested and lodged at the police station less than twenty minutes after the discovery of one of the breaks, was the hurry record established Thursday by George Coleman of Boston, when he came to Portsmouth and started work while slightly under the influence of liquor. Coleman confessed at the station after his arrest to having entered the office of Dr. William O. Jenkins at 31 Congress street and that of Attorney Harold M. Smith, nearly opposite, Coleman gave his age as 45 years and his occupation as a machinist, but has done some work in this city for surgeons, sharpening their instruments. From his conversation, as reported by Dr. E. B. Eastman, for whom he has worked at different times, Coleman is very well acquainted in Boston and has done considerable work of the sort for physicians in that city.

Dr. Jenkins left his office shortly after 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon and returned at 6:35 to find the glass in his door smashed through, the door opened. He looked about hastily and found the upper left hand draw of his desk opened. In looking through the draw he discovered that a loaded revolver which he has kept there for years, was missing, two pairs of glasses and some blank checks on the First National Bank. Dr. Jenkins notified the police station at once and Officers Kelly and Anderson were detailed to the case. They reported to the office of Dr. Jenkins for information and before 7:00 o'clock had located the stolen revolver in a pawn shop on Penhallow street, where Coleman had placed it, obtaining $1.25 on it. The officers were given a description of the man pawned the gun and five minutes later Officer Anderson located him on Penhallow street and placed him under arrest.

When searched at the station a quantity of slumps, the two half of glasses and the blank checks were found and Coleman then admitted having made the break in the office of Dr. Jenkins. He later admitted "entering the office of Mr. Smith about 3:00 o'clock in the afternoon where he obtained the stamps and fountain pen which was found in another pawn shop, the pen having been identified by Mr. Smith as belonging to him." Coleman was booked, charged with breaking, entering and larceny and will be arraigned this morning in the Municipal Court before Judge Gupitt.

Coleman is somewhat of a mystery to the officers and physicians in the city. The first account obtainable of him was when he came to the office of Dr. Eastman some months ago and asked for work at sharpening surgical instruments. Dr. Eastman gave him some work and it was done in a very satisfactory manner. Coleman telling the doctor that he did a great deal of that class of work for professional men in Boston. He seemed familiar with many of the surgeons in Boston and was an expert at his work. He came back to the city and called at Dr. Eastman's some time in November, last, asking for more work and again returned three or four days ago. He said he was going to Newburyport and asked for his car fare which the doctor gave him. That was the last seen of him until his arrest at 7:00 Thursday evening.

In talking to Dr. Eastman and Dr. Jenkins at the station after his arrest he admitted making the "break" and said that he had done it about 6:30 o'clock, watching the building until he was certain that all the occupants had left. He said that he had not made any break into the office of Dr. Eastman because of the fact that Dr. Eastman had been good to him. Coleman is more or less of a puzzle to the authorities as he has not the appearance or the manners of the professional crook and they have not been able to learn that he has any criminal record.

Jack Murphy, the high diver, attached to the carnival and fair now being held under the auspices of the Portsmouth Lodge of Moose at Freeman's Hall, proved last evening, on the occasion of the third night's session, that he could do other things than risk his life and do them entertainingly, for nearly an hour last night he held the attention of the large gathering in the hall, while he presented a variety of songs and pleasing vaudeville numbers. Murphy secured a big hit and proved a valuable asset to the entertainment program of the carnival.

He announced from the stage that he would make another public dive this noon from one of the towers of the Consolidation Coal Company's pier, making the jump across an anchored barge which is lying alongside the wharf. This dive will probably be one of the most spectacular high jumps ever attempted in this vicinity and one which Mr. Murphy has seldom tried. In the evening he will again appear on the stage at the closing night of the fair, and will present a black face novelty act.

The fair last evening attracted an even larger number than on either of the previous nights, the booths doing excellent business and the dancing attracting a large number of the younger people. In the work of making it a success the committee has been ably assisted by the following ladies, who have had charge of several of the booths: Mrs. Fred T. Hartson, Mrs. W. M. Smart, Mrs. C. O. Layton, Miss Grace Carey, Miss Cobb, Mrs. W. H. McKendie, Miss Eva Bohann, Miss Packard, Miss Lizio and Mrs. W. H. Lane. Working with the committee the following members of the Haverhill Lodge have given valuable assistance, Messrs. J. H. Greenwood, W. J. Watson, J. Plamen, Harry Short and W. H. McKendie.

press was not in session and it, therefore, became necessary for the department to draw largely upon such balances successfully to combat the foot-and-mouth disease. Payment of the expenses of the work involved in the foot-and-mouth disease project from the appropriation referred to, necessarily embarrassed the other lines of activities, the expenses of which were exclusively chargeable thereto. In order to carry on the several lines of work outlined in said appropriation, it was necessary to reimburse that appropriation practically to the extent of the amount paid therefrom in furtherance of the foot-and-mouth disease project. When Congress convened, the situation confronting the department was fully explained to the Committee on Appropriations. As a result of presenting the matter to that committee, an item was included in the deficiency bill of January 25, 1915, reading as follows:

"For the arrest and eradication of the foot-and-mouth disease, the payment of claims arising out of past and future purchases and destruction of animals affected by or exposed to the foot-and-mouth disease, and for a deficiency in the objects specified under the head 'General expenses, Bureau of Animal Industry,' in the agricultural appropriation act for the fiscal year 1915, $2,500,000 to be expended by the Secretary of Agriculture."

"The objects of this bill were twofold—(1) to defray the expenses incurred by the department in the eradication of the foot-and-mouth disease, and (2) to reimburse the Bureau of Animal Industry for the deficiency in the objects specified under the head 'General expenses, Bureau of Animal Industry,' in the agricultural appropriation act for the fiscal year 1915, $2,500,000 to be expended by the Secretary of Agriculture."

He said that he had not made any break into the office of Dr. Eastman because of the fact that Dr. Eastman had been good to him. Coleman is more or less of a puzzle to the authorities as he has not the appearance or the manners of the professional crook and they have not been able to learn that he has any criminal record.

Jack Murphy, the high diver, attached to the carnival and fair now being held under the auspices of the Portsmouth Lodge of Moose at Freeman's Hall, proved last evening, on the occasion of the third night's session, that he could do other things than risk his life and do them entertainingly, for nearly an hour last night he held the attention of the large gathering in the hall, while he presented a variety of songs and pleasing vaudeville numbers. Murphy secured a big hit and proved a valuable asset to the entertainment program of the carnival.

He announced from the stage that he would make another public dive this noon from one of the towers of the Consolidation Coal Company's pier, making the jump across an anchored barge which is lying alongside the wharf. This dive will probably be one of the most spectacular high jumps ever attempted in this vicinity and one which Mr. Murphy has seldom tried. In the evening he will again appear on the stage at the closing night of the fair, and will present a black face novelty act.

The fair last evening attracted an even larger number than on either of the previous nights, the booths doing excellent business and the dancing attracting a large number of the younger people. In the work of making it a success the committee has been ably assisted by the following ladies, who have had charge of several of the booths: Mrs. Fred T. Hartson, Mrs. W. M. Smart, Mrs. C. O. Layton, Miss Grace Carey, Miss Cobb, Mrs. W. H. McKendie, Miss Eva Bohann, Miss Packard, Miss Lizio and Mrs. W. H. Lane. Working with the committee the following members of the Haverhill Lodge have given valuable assistance, Messrs. J. H. Greenwood, W. J. Watson, J. Plamen, Harry Short and W. H. McKendie.

press was not in session and it, therefore, became necessary for the department to draw largely upon such balances successfully to combat the foot-and-mouth disease. Payment of the expenses of the work involved in the foot-and-mouth disease project from the appropriation referred to, necessarily embarrassed the other lines of activities, the expenses of which were exclusively chargeable thereto. In order to carry on the several lines of work outlined in said appropriation, it was necessary to reimburse that appropriation practically to the extent of the amount paid therefrom in furtherance of the foot-and-mouth disease project. When Congress convened, the situation confronting the department was fully explained to the Committee on Appropriations. As a result of presenting the matter to that committee, an item was included in the deficiency bill of January 25, 1915, reading as follows:

"For the arrest and eradication of the foot-and-mouth disease, the payment of claims arising out of past and future purchases and destruction of animals affected by or exposed to the foot-and-mouth disease, and for a deficiency in the objects specified under the head 'General expenses, Bureau of Animal Industry,' in the agricultural appropriation act for the fiscal year 1915, $2,500,000 to be expended by the Secretary of Agriculture."

"The objects of this bill were twofold—(1) to defray the expenses incurred by the department in the eradication of the foot-and-mouth disease, and (2) to reimburse the Bureau of Animal Industry for the deficiency in the objects specified under the head 'General expenses, Bureau of Animal Industry,' in the agricultural appropriation act for the fiscal year 1915, $2,500,000 to be expended by the Secretary of Agriculture."

dent to the suppression of the foot-and-mouth disease and (2) to reimburse the appropriation 'General expenses, Bureau of Animal Industry,' for the deficiency in the objects specified thereunder occasioned by the outbreak of that disease. In conformity with this authorization, the various subappropriations under 'General expenses, Bureau of Animal Industry,' which had been heavily drawn upon for defraying the expenses of the work connected with the eradication of the foot-and-mouth disease, were reimbursed from the deficiency item of $2,500,000, as such action became necessary by charging items of expense subsequently incurred for defraying animal husbandry, or other regular work to the emergency appropriation. In all such cases the vouchers for such items bore the title of the emergency appropriation, together with the title of the subappropriation under 'General expenses, Bureau of Animal Industry,' to which the expense was chargeable, thus clearly showing that the subappropriation was reimbursed from the emergency appropriation to the extent of the amount covered by such items, and accounts of these reimbursements were taken up and carried on the official records in this way. The items to which you referred on the floor of the House were items of this nature.

"I may add, also, that in no instance was there a reimbursement of the original subappropriations beyond the amount appropriated by Congress in the appropriation act for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1915. Indeed, owing to the interruption in the regular work of the Bureau of Animal Industry, it was not necessary to reimburse the regular subappropriations for all of the money which had been withdrawn for use in the foot-and-mouth disease work between the date of the outbreak of the disease and January 25, 1915. The total amount withdrawn during that period from the regular subappropriations was $507,170.63, while the total reimbursement from the emergency appropriation amounted to but $629,135.63.

"It is believed that this explanation clearly shows that the expenditures for travel in connection with the several lines of work covered by the appropriation 'General expenses, Bureau of Animal Industry,' which were charged to and paid from the deficiency appropriation of January 25, 1915, were properly paid under the authority contained in the latter appropriation."

The explanation given in the Secretary's letter cleared up the misunderstanding before the Congress.

New Hampshire College, Durham, N. H., March 2.—When it comes to preparedness the faculty is not going to be left behind. The Faculty Rifle Club has just had its first session at the indoor range and Professor E. T. Huddleston of the department of drawing led the field with a score of 49 out of a possible 60.

The range is in the college gymnasium and is for the use of members of the cadet regiment. The faculty members have not secured the place for Tuesday evenings and will continue to perfect themselves in the use of the rifle there until they can get to the outdoor range later in the spring.

So far as can be learned every faculty member within the age limit has received this week a statement from the war department as to the Plattsburg camp, and the conditions for enrollment. Those attending the first rifle practice were Lieut. S. J. Sutherland, U. S. A., O. V. Henderson, C. C. Steek, E. T. Huddleston, F. W. Taylor, C. H. Cleveland, L. W. Hitchcock, H. V. Mitchell, J. H. SAFEST and BEST

FROM now on, the Standard Oil Company of New York's best grade of refined oil will be sold by name—SOCONY (So-CO-ny) Kerosene Oil.

It was the Standard Oil Company which was responsible for making kerosene a safe and reliable fuel in the early days of the petroleum industry.

Today SOCONY, which is the trademarked name we have given to our best grade of kerosene, represents the last word in the refining of kerosene oil.

All kerosene is not alike by any means. And the good kind is enough better to be decidedly worth asking for. If you want the most heat from your stoves and heaters, most light from your lamps and lanterns, with complete freedom from smoke and odor, order SOCONY Kerosene by name.

Dealers who carry genuine SOCONY Kerosene Oil display the SOCONY sign in their windows. Look for this sign. It is the sign of quality and the world's best kerosene.

Equitable Taxation.

For many years there have been individuals who felt that an increase in taxes on property because of improvements was something of a hardship and that the practice is not conducive to the best results in the matter of caring for buildings. It is argued that the more a man improves his property the more he is taxed, and that for this reason shiftlessness in the care of buildings is encouraged rather than thrift.

This idea has resulted in the introduction of a bill in the Massachusetts Legislature providing that improvements made on buildings for the sake of appearances alone, and which do not add to the income from them, should not be followed by increased taxation. Friends of the bill contend that such taxation holds in check the disposition to make improvements, and that some owners deliberately neglect their buildings in order to avoid an increase in taxes.

But while this may be true in some cases it is difficult to see how a change can be made in the matter of assessments if an equitable basis for taxation is to be maintained. Taxes should be levied according to the value of the property assessed. If a man improves the appearance of a house it may be of no more intrinsic worth to live in or to rent, yet value has been added. The house will bring more if offered for sale.

In most cities and towns there are vacant lots that are bringing their owners not a cent of income, but they are valuable and they have to be taxed. The fact that they are held vacant to await higher prices does not exempt them, and it should not.

The only fair and just method is to assess property according to its value, and to a certain extent there is as much value in appearances as in anything else. A man who remodels his house and improves its appearance would claim increased value if offering to sell, and there is increased value, although it may be worth no more for actual living purposes.

What is needed in the assessment of taxes is a most scrupulous avoidance of discrimination. A legal opening for discrimination would lead to all sorts of entanglements and the greatest dissatisfaction, and would result in altogether more harm than good. Assessors are usually reasonable men of good judgment, and in the great majority of cases they may be trusted not to bear down too heavily upon property owners for improving their holdings.

Many persons were taken seriously ill after attending a recent church dinner in Pennsylvania, and an investigation is in progress to determine whether the trouble was caused by ptomaine poisoning or whether arsenic was placed in the food. All know what happened at Chicago a short time ago. If this sort of thing keeps on the banquet as an institution is liable to lose some of its popularity.

It is claimed that a secret code in most innocent looking advertisements have enabled a swindler who recently fled the country after his operations had run into six figures to communicate with his family here. As a woman once remarked while sailing past Coney Island in the evening and gazing upon the brilliant illumination, "great is the ingenuity of man."

There has come to light in New York a 22-calibre pistol that so closely resembles a jackknife as to fool the average officer who is not "onto" this latest form of concealed weapon. This is worse than the sword cane or the kind of silencer used recently by a young refugee from an insane asylum in shooting up Albany, N. Y.

The claim is made that the recent cold wave will greatly shorten the peach crop in some sections, but the probability is that when the peach season arrives there will be peaches. This is a big country, and a while frost or a cold wave in some particular hollow does not wipe out the whole of any crop.

Champions of the full crew law in force in New York state are claiming that the railroad wreck in Connecticut the other day would not have occurred if there had been such a law in the Nutmeg state. It is to be doubted, however, that this theory will be supported by the findings of the investigators.

It is announced from New York that the American Defense Society is to match the advertising campaign being conducted by Henry Ford in behalf of peace. Whatever else comes out of this ink-clinging contest, it certainly means increased prosperity for the publications that get the "ads."

It is announced that the United States has developed a gun with a 24-mile range and capable of sending a projectile through any armor plate that has thus far been manufactured. This should count for something in the matter of preparedness.

M'CALL FAVORS EXPOSITION

World's Fair May Be Held in 1920 to Mark 300th Anniversary of Pilgrim's Landing.

Boston, March 3.—Governor Samuel W. McCall has come out strongly in favor of a World's exposition to mark the 300th anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth, in 1220. In an address before the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange he said: "Four years from next December it will be 300 years since the Mayflower anchored at Plymouth. We are not all descended from the Pilgrims, for all the great race stocks of Europe have come trooping over and taken a hand in building up our country. But we all look back on that Plymouth colony as establishing the germ of our Commonwealth. I believe we should have a great world's fair in four years from now. We are certainly justified in hoping that the war will have ceased long before that event, and what a magnificent opportunity it will give the nations now engaged and the rest of the world to exhibit their industry and art here. I believe we can have the greatest international exposition that the world has ever seen. The business men of Massachusetts are the ones who can make it a great success. I hope you will all work for a great world's fair in Massachusetts to commemorate the establishment of the American Commonwealth in the landing of the Pilgrims."

CURRENT OPINION

The twentieth century will quite certainly be an age of chemistry. Germany realized that some years ago, with results that are now evident to all. If we would not be left far behind in the race we must pursue a similar course, and that at once.

We have yet to convince many of the nations of the earth that the form of government in which we believe and to establish which our ancestors died, is the best, not only for the freedom and happiness of the individual and the development of the noblest intellectual and moral standards, but also for the growth of the country in physical strength and resourcefulness, and that in the hour of need it will not be found wanting in the vital matter of industrial efficiency and solidarity which is the cornerstone of military power.

Our own country is beginning to awaken to the fact that civilization unarmored by science is at a terrible disadvantage in the event of a struggle for existence, and that this armoring cannot be done at short notice. The result is a loud and urgent call upon the universities, colleges and technical schools of the land for help.—By Professor Marston T. Roger, Columbia University.

G. T. ENGINE EXPLODES
Four Men Injured in Accident at Portland Yards.

Portland, March 3.—Four men were injured, one badly when a shifting engine, No. 1720, exploded in the Grand Trunk House, East Deering at 2.15 on Friday morning.

The force of the explosion threw Engineer Hayes and Fireman Damon thirty feet across the big roundhouse and almost completely demolished the locomotive.

Only the size of the roundhouse saved the building from destruction. The space was so great that the force of the fragments thrown from the bursting engine was spent, and the walls were strong enough to withstand the strain.

Everyone of the thirty or forty windows in the round house were shattered. The actual cause of the explosion was the bursting of the... locomotive.

George Newton and Herbert E. Stevens, two of the yard employees, were working about the roundhouse when the explosion came and were hurled many feet by the concussion.

Newton was the worst hurt and he was hurried to the hospital in the police ambulance after the other three had been left at their respective homes.

Within three minutes after the emergency call was received at the police station the ambulance was on the way with Captain Cady, Inspector Boston, Sgt. Dingley and a squad of officers. In the mean time word had been sent to Dr. Edgar B. Barker and Dr. W. S. A. Kimball of East Deering and they were on the spot and ministering to the injured when the ambulance arrived.

COMMERCIAL POSSIBILITIES OF THE GOOSEFISH.

Every year the fishermen of the Atlantic coast throw away about ten million pounds of fish which have a high nutritive value. On trawl lines and in nets, along with cod, haddock and other popular fishes are taken some 100,000 goosefish, or anglers, or monk-fish, as they are also called, weighing on the average 25 pounds each and yielding, when butchered, steaks containing flesh-building material equal, pound for pound, to sirloin steaks, according to Dr. Hugh H. Smith of the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries.

The value of these fish is not recognized, and they are at present entirely a waste product. Were they properly appreciated, they would be a source of profit to the fisherman even at a minimum price, for they are taken quite without effort and are abundant along the Atlantic shores of the United States and the adjacent ocean bottom.

NASHUA WANTS INCREASE IN PAY

The lion moulers of Nashua are out for more pay and will enforce an increase from $2.75 to $3.00 a day, if such is possible.

It is stated by members that their demand for the increase is to date from March 1 and that they are prepared to act unless the raise is granted. That means that they will walk out or remain out from work when it comes time for the Monday work.

It is further stated that the first demands will be made on the White Mountain Freezer Company and the Puffer shop, where a large per cent of the moulers are employed.

Chemical Research Necessary to the Preservation of Our Nation.

To the consumer, they would constitute a cheap and very wholesome food. In Europe the goosefish is highly valued. It abounds in the North Sea, and other waters of western Europe, and is caught incidentally in the other trawl and line fisheries. In former years it was discarded as worthless, but now it is always saved, and the annual consumption amounts to millions of pounds. As brought in by the North Sea fishermen and exposed for sale in the British and continental markets, the fish is beheaded, eviscerated, and skinned, the fins being trimmed off. In 1911, the fishermen of England landed and sold over 3,700,000 pounds, and the fishermen of Scotland more than 2,000,000 pounds. Large quantities are caught and sold by the fishermen of Germany and other countries on the eastern side of the North Sea.

The fish appears to be held in high esteem in the larger cities of Germany, where, notwithstanding its commonly known under the repellent name of sea tuffel (sea devil), it meets with very ready sale. The catch of the German North Sea travelers does not nearly supply the local demand, and large quantities have been imported from Great Britain.

Some idea of the high rank held by the goosefish among the food fishes of Germany may be gained from the fact that at the public wholesale fish market at Cuxhaven, Germany, fresh trawl-caught mackerel of medium size bring 2 1/4 to 3 pence, large haddock 6 1/4 to 7 pence, and goosefish 8 pence.

Among the persons who have tested the goosefish, there is a remarkable consensus of opinion as to its food qualities. A former Commissioner of Fisheries, Dr. George Brown Goode, in his Natural History of Aquatic Animals (1884), noted that "its flesh is very palatable," and that "in parts of Great Britain it is also eaten, and steaks from the neighborhood of the tail being preferred."

According to analysis made for the Bureau of Fisheries by the Bureau of Chemistry, based on samples of goosefish obtained in Boston, the nutritive value of the goosefish is high. The edible portions contain considerably more protein (flesh-building material) than the flounders, slightly more than the cod, a little less than the halibut, and considerably less than sirloin steak. In fat constituents, the fish is a very little below the average of cod and flounders and considerably inferior to the halibut. One pound of fresh goosefish, with the head, viscera and skin removed, would contain protein about equal in quantity to that in one pound of sirloin steak as purchased. The flesh of the sirloin contains a higher proportion of protein than the fish, but only 75 per cent of the meat as purchased is edible, while about 80 per cent of the butchered goosefish is edible. The steak contains a high percentage of fat and the goosefish very little. As obtainable in the markets, the goosefish is equal to beefsteak in protein, the expensive food ingredient.

The goosefish has an average length of 3 feet, but fish 4 feet or more in length are not uncommon. It is of rather ugly appearance, and this has doubtless accounted for the lack of appreciation of its food qualities. The body is very broad and depressed, the head is large, and the mouth is wide and of enormous capacity. The powerful jaws are provided with a double row of strong teeth.

The fish are most voracious, eating almost every kind of animal of suitable size living in the sea. In addition to fishes, it feeds regularly on worms, starfishes, gastropods and viviparous mollusks, squids, lobsters, crabs, and various waterfowl, including ducks and geese. Great variety of diet is accompanied by excessive greediness, so that a single meal may weigh half as much as the fish itself. This fish is, therefore, very destructive, and its utilization would have a beneficial effect on the abundance of various fishes, crustaceans, etc., of economic importance.

PORTLAND FISHERMEN BALK AT HIGH GASOLENE

Many Are Removing Engines and Refitting Their Craft With Sails.

Portland, March 3.—Fishermen of Casco Bay are being forced to dismantle their boats and remove their engines because of the prices to which gasoline is soaring. Today the fuel sold at 23 cents a gallon and a couple of fishermen immediately began to remove their engines. They are to refit their craft with sails as in former days.

SOME SHIP RATES
RISE 1000 PER CENT

Washington, March 3.—The masses in Great Britain are paying exorbitant prices for imported goods, and are demanding that the British government commandeer the entire British mercantile tonnage, in order that the ship owners may not reap fortunes through high rates, at the expense of consumers' pocketbooks, according to consular advices received in Washington today.

The reports show that freight rates from Bombay to the United Kingdom are now 621 per cent higher than a year ago, and from the River Plate more than 1000 per cent higher. Rates from Atlantic ports have soared 706 per cent for cotton and 503 per cent for grain. British people, reports say, feel that they are thus taxed beyond reason for the benefit of the shipowners.

TRIAL SET FOR MARCH 28

Fred Belware Charged With Setting Fire at Ossipee.

The trial of Fred Belware, charged with setting the fire that destroyed the Carroll County Courthouse and several other buildings in Ossipee Village last June has been set for March 28 in Dover. The case was transferred last December from Carroll County to Strafford County.

The trial has been twice postponed owing to the illness of one of the state's chief witnesses, who is now recovering from an attack of appendicitis. Chief Justice Pike will preside.

WILL HAVE ALL SECTIONS EQUIPPED WITH MOTOR CARS

B. & M. Prepares to Fight Fires and Facilitate Track Work.

The department of maintenance and way of the Boston & Maine railroad has directed that all sections of the entire system be equipped with motor cars and the orders for the same have already been placed with a Chicago firm for the necessary number. At present about half of the sections have the gasoline cars and the additional number will be welcome by the several foremen and crews along the line.

This improvement will greatly facilitate all track work and will be the means of getting section men to the scene of forest fires along the tracks in much quicker time, thus preventing much loss to the company on fire claims that have been cut into the treasury for many years in enormous amounts.

SHE STOLE THE WEDDING RING

Forgets Would-Be Bride and Comes to Grief.

A man named Ford, from Greenfield, who is shortly to take a bride, came to Nashua to purchase the wedding ring. He took lots of time and finally got one that suited, for which he paid $10. Then he looked around the town a little. While on the tour of the city—he had been there before—he met Agnes Shephard, a young vivacious symphony, all in black, even to the gayly plumed hat. There was a talk and later at the invitation of the young lady's nephew, Ford went to their home at 33 Lowell street. He had some beer and a fairly good time. So good that the next morning, yesterday, he went back again. He was there some during the day and into the evening.

He testified in court that his newly made lady friend tried on the wedding ring several times, outside of that he did not remember much. The fact he knew he was on the street and he thought of the ring for his coming wedding, the object of his visit to Nashua. It was gone.

He went to the police station and told his story to Sergeant J. H. Halsey. Sergeant Halsey and Officer Mulvaney knew by the description the young lady, although Ford did not know any of the streets by name.

The officer paid a visit to the Lowell street house. At first it was strenuously denied that the ring was there but finally it was produced tied up in one of the black ribbons. The arrest of the woman followed.

In court the woman pleaded not guilty through her counsel, and the story as above stated came out in the testimony.

The young woman testified, breaking down and crying on the stand, that Ford gave her the ring several times yesterday and wanted to marry her. She was held in $500 bonds for the May term of the superior court on a charge of larceny from the person.

WANTS HIS BABY KILLED

Father of Defective Infant Appeals to Police.

Des. Moines, Ia., March 2.—Because his two months old daughter is sub-normal, Charles Cleveland, laborer, today asked the Des Moines police to kill the child in some merciful manner.

"The doctors have refused, but it is wrong to let the child live," Cleveland told Police Chief Edward Crawford. "Well, we can't do it; the child has a soul and it would be murder," said Crawford.

"That's what the doctors said, but unless somebody kills the baby I'll have to," said Cleveland. "It's driving my wife and me crazy. Why I haven't had the shoes off my feet since the child was born. It has kept me awake all the time."

Doctors say a series of operations might restore it to nearly normal condition, unless its brain or spine is impaired. But his face would always be unlike that of a normal person.

RICHES FOR THE TAKING

Ambitious Young Men Advised to Go to Brazil and Make Fortune.

Boston, March 3.—New England young men who wish to get rich quick or to build up business connections that will grow with the years, should learn Spanish and Portuguese and then sail for Brazil.

This was the statement of John S. Fitch on Thursday just before he left the United States hotel for his home in Rio de Janeiro, where he will represent several large American firms.

"There is the greatest future ever known in the history of the world for people from the United States—from Boston if you please—who will learn Spanish or Portuguese or both, and go to Brazil," said Fitch. "Brazilians are the most cultured people in the world. This is the psychological moment to go after the trade that is waiting in South America and particularly in Brazil."

"The Brazilians are also the most honest people on the face of the earth. It seems to me that a good working knowledge of the Portuguese language can be obtained in the course of three months with a few minutes study daily. The alphabet should be learned carefully at first, and then about 10 verbs and the conjugations. A 350-word vocabulary is ample for business purposes."

TO CLOSE THE GREENLAND LINE ON APRIL 1ST

Boston & Maine Cannot Put Out $12,000 for Repairs.

The Boston and Maine railroad through the superintendent of the Portland division, John Bourke has notified the residents of Greenland that the company cannot consider the proposition made to it to keep the electric line from the Portsmouth Plains to Greenland open after April 1. The Greenland people made an offer of $5000 for this purpose. They were to give $1000 the first year and $500 each year for eight years on a contract that would provide the necessary transportation for school children.

This Boston and Maine after survey of the road said it would be a losing proposition in view of the fact that it would cost approximately $12,000 to repair the roadbed to make it safe for the operation of cars.

It is understood that the Greenland people will submit another plan to the management with the hopes of retaining the line. The matter was to have come before the voters at the next town meeting.

DRINK HOT WATER BEFORE BREAKFAST

Says you really feel clean, sweet and fresh inside, and are seldom ill.

If you are accustomed to wake up with a coated tongue, foul breath or a dull, dizzy headache; or if your meals sour and turn into gas and acids, you have a real surprise awaiting you.

Tomorrow morning, immediately after arising, drink a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This is intended to neutralize and then wash out of your stomach, liver, kidneys and thirty feet of intestines, all the indigestible waste, poisons, sour bile and toxins, thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal.

Those subject to sick headaches, backache, bilious attacks, constipation or any form of stomach trouble, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store and begin enjoying this morning lido side bath. It is said that men and women who try this become enthusiastic and keep it up daily. It is a splendid health measure for it is more important to keep clean and pure on the inside than on the outside, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing disease, while the bowel pores do.

The principle of bathing inside is not new, as millions of people practice it. Just as hot water and soap cleanse, purify and freshen the skin, so hot water and a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Limestone phosphate is an inexpensive white powder and almost tasteless.

RAILROAD NOTES

At the town election at Old Orchard a committee will be asked for to confer with the authorities of the Boston and Maine railroad to see if arrangements can be made to stop all trains clear of Old Orchard street during the summer months. This is a highly important problem, and on its face is not easy of solution. The Old Orchard depot is not long enough to accommodate the long trains which bring the summer traffic through without extending beyond the station about two cars at either end.

Former President Mellen of the New Haven railroad denies that he was ever in any way connected as director or shareholder with the John L. Billard Co., which has settled its suit with the railroad by a cash payment of $1,250,000, or that he was a party to the settlement.

The Lima Locomotive Corporation received an order for ten switching engines from the Baltimore and Ohio at a cost of $200,000. More than 200 locomotives are on the books of the local corporation yet to be built.

Daniel Sinclair of Massachusetts, a veteran of the Boston and Maine, recently retired on a pension.

Mr. Sinclair has been an employee of the Boston and Maine railroad for nearly 45 years and for more than 40 years he was foreman of the section, and always at Massachusetts. His territory extended in both directions from the Lake station. In all these years he has been known as one of the most faithful men in the employ of the road, and as age came upon him he was recognized as one of the most deserving.

SAILORS IN QUARANTINE

Three Cases of Scarlet Fever Among Men From U. S. S. Georgia at Boston.

One hundred and sixty-eight blue-jackets who came to the Boston navy yard ten days ago from the Chicago training station at the Great Lakes to form a part of the crew of the battleship Nevada, due to be placed in commission next week, have been quarantined because of three cases of scarlet fever. It is believed that these cases developed shortly after the arrival of the men who were housed on the battleship Georgia, which is in second commission under a skeleton crew and is now undergoing repairs.

The quarantined men are now under observation in building 39, formerly used as a naval prison. It is understood that their isolation has been ordered solely as a precaution, and that no great fear of an actual epidemic is felt. The Georgia has been fumigated thoroughly and her crew is still aboard.

BIG GUNS IN ACTION IN VERDUN FIGHTING

Germans Bombard Positions Between Malancourt Fresnes and Principal Crossings on the Meuse

Paris, March 3.—The war office announcement of this afternoon says that there was intermittent bombardment of the Verdun and Woerw front during the night, but that there were no developments of importance.

The text of the war office announcement reads as follows:

"In the Aisne district to the east of the road running from Neuville to La Felle, we had caused the explosion of a mine located under an old crater which was occupied by the enemy. We took possession of the new crater."

"In the region of Verdun the enemy bombarded violently last night. Le Mort Homme (the Dead Man) at the Cote de L'Or, between Malancourt and Fresnes, as well as the principal crossings of the river Meuse. There was little activity on the part of the artillery to the east of the Meuse."

"In the Woerw district after an intense retaliatory fire from the artillery the enemy yesterday evening delivered a spirited attack on our positions at Fresnes. They were at once driven back by our counter attack from the positions which they had succeeded in penetrating."

"In the Lorraine district a bombardment of several hours' duration against the Sainte Marie Farm, west of Bezaucourt, was followed by an attack on the part of the enemy which resulted in complete failure."

"In Alsace certain tentative movements undertaken by strong German patrols against our outposts in the valley of the Lauter were repulsed by the use of hand grenades."

Expect Blow Near St. Mihiel

The following official communication was issued by the War Office last night:

"In Belgium our artillery in concert with the British artillery, effectively shelled the enemy trenches southeast of Bessinghe. East of Thielt a detachment comprising two companies which attempted to reach our line retreated hastily under our fire, leaving some dead on the ground."

"In the region of Verdun there was no infantry action during the course of the day. The enemy bombardment continued west of the Meuse in the zone between Malancourt and Forges, east of the Meuse, especially in the region of Vaux and Dambloup and in the Woerw district, but no developments of importance were observed."

"Our artillery shelled the enemy positions in the Aisne district, but no developments of importance were observed."

that the enemy intends to take the offensive elsewhere than at Verdun, which all attention is directed at that point. Meanwhile we are holding great German forces in lines which cannot be thinned because of our strength. It is this means we are helping our Allies very effectively."

Air Fights on British Front

London, March 2.—The British official communication issued last night says:

"Yesterday there were twenty air encounters on our front. The enemy losses were reported yesterday. One of our machines failed to return from a reconnaissance."

"Last night, north of the Somme, our infantry and machine guns dispersed a party of the enemy who attempted an advance from their trenches under the cover of a bombardment. Today was generally quiet, but there was considerable activity in the neighborhood of Ypres."

Italians Forging Ahead

Rome, via London, March 2.—The following official communication was issued yesterday:

"Our detachments have extended and consolidated the position we occupied west of the heights of Monte Marone. After overcoming great difficulties caused by terrain and atmospheric conditions."

"In the Montenegro zone our patrols carried out a daring reconnaissance toward the enemy's lines at Mrali, where we threw grenades, causing alarm among the enemy."

"There have been particularly heavy artillery actions in the Gorizia zone. The enemy bombarded some inhabited places, doing material damage, but not inflicting any loss."

"Our artillery has effectively bombarded enemy shelters, observation posts and marching troops."

Kills An English Baby

London, March 2.—A German seaplane bombed a portion of the southeast of England last night, according to an official statement. A nine months old child was killed. There was no material damage. A correspondent in an unnamed coastal town sends the following telegram to a friend in London:

"Shortly after 6 o'clock in the evening a German seaplane flying west passed over the southeast coast. Several bombs were dropped, killing one child and breaking some windows. The houses in this district are very scattered and the damage done was slight. It was already dark when the raider arrived, and his previous and subsequent movements are unknown."

Norwegian Steamer Bombed

London, March 2.—A despatch to Reuters from Christiania says a German seaplane attacked with bombs the Norwegian steamer, Modern, bound for England, but that the vessel was not damaged.

Available shipping records do not contain the steamer Modern. There is, however, a Modern, a vessel of 1465 tons, and a Modern of 1143 tons.

Greek Cabinet Talks War

London, March 2.—An Athens despatch to Reuters' Telegram Company says that the Greek Cabinet sat until late at night discussing the situation. Members of the Government were authorized for the statement that so far no event had occurred, to justify a change in Greek policy. The "non-intervention" press is dealing extensively with the attack on Verdun and giving high prominence to the German official communications.

Rumanian Grain to Vectors

Copenhagen, via London, March 2.—The transport of grain from Rumania to Austria and Germany has commenced according to a Berlin despatch. Seven thousand freight cars were sent to Rumania from Austria and Germany, of which 6000 are already loaded. The total purchases aggregated 50,000 carloads.

NEW VERSION OF THE FAMOUS BARALONG INCIDENT

London, March 2.—The Daily Telegraph has from a correspondent a new version of the famous Baralong incident.

The incident occurred on the night of March 1, 1915, when the German submarine, U-20, attacked the British merchant ship, the Baralong, off the coast of Ireland. The submarine fired a torpedo which struck the Baralong, causing her to sink. The German crew then boarded the ship and looted it.

The incident was widely reported at the time, and it was generally believed that the Baralong was a British ship. However, it was later discovered that the ship was actually a German merchant ship, and the incident was a case of mistaken identity.

BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DARK

Nobody Can Tell when you Darken Gray, Faded Hair with Sage Tea

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur properly compounded brings back the natural color of faded hair to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients for about 25 cents.

Don't stay gray! Try it. No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure of dandruff or the prevention of disease.

long incident, when, according to the German account, the crew of a U-boat were massacred in cold blood by the British sailors.

The correspondent says:

"Now that a Norwegian paper has told half the story of the sinking of a German submarine by His Majesty's ship Baralong, there can be no harm in telling the whole of it."

The tramp steamer Nicolson, with a cargo of mules for the Allies, had no passengers on board. The captain, the mate and half a dozen men, made up the crew and there were some ten or twelve American gentlemen aboard to look after the animals. Captain from the southern part of the United States as these were, come of a hardy race. Perhaps it would be more true to say that only the hardiest—who have fallen in more peaceful vocations—can stand the life between decks of a cableboat. Rudyard Kipling has well described the class in "Mollie's Cabin," and there is little that need be added to his picture. But it will be understood that these are men whom a German naval officer should have attempted to save. At no time do they put such value on human life, even their own, but they are scarcely of a breed likely to take sliding down in a cold blooded attempt at murder by a set of Germans.

The journey was uneventful. As the Nicolson neared the shores of Europe, the sea got up slightly but not enough to cause any trouble. Suddenly the watch reported a German submarine lying across their track. She had been almost invisible until the Nicolson was almost upon her, being scarcely more than a wash. A torpedo was fired and the German colors hoisted. The torpedo struck the Nicolson, but her bulkheads held out and she scarcely did more than sink a foot deeper with a heavy list to port. Her engines were of course stopped at once but her headway carried her nearer and nearer the submarine.

As she slowed down, one of her boats was lowered and another made ready. Meanwhile the submarine fired six or seven shells. The captain, believing that the Nicolson was the prey of the two, refused to enter the first boat in which were the captain and crew. The latter had seen a strangely built craft coming up from the east, and it is possible that the suspicion of the newswoman's amazing pace may have induced the captain to make all speed to meet her. Anyway, the captain and crew of the Nicolson—all British—disappeared from this moment on from the narrative.

"The German officer found himself on velvet. He had winged the Nicolson, which remained helpless before him, and he had another torpedo waiting for the flimsy-looking newswoman. It had been supposed that he had only one torpedo left and that he was therefore anxious to dispose of the Nicolson in another way. But in any case there would be economy in using three or four bombs at ten pounds each, instead of a torpedo at five hundred pounds; so in one of his two boats he sent off a bombing party to finish off the crippled Nicolson."

"But he reckoned without his host. Scarcely had his boat's crew clamored up the side of the boat than a couple of shells put an end to the submarine. The captain signalling to his men as he believed them to be on the Nicolson that he was coming aboard her, set out himself in the cableboat, while the undersized Baralong came up at full speed."

"The German officer's intention was of course to secure a footing on the Nicolson and hoist a white flag in the token of surrender. What the Baralong thought of the scene as she drew up and could hear and see more distinctly remains as yet unknown. What was actually taking place forms one of the most thrilling tragedies that the sea has ever known."

"The captain, discovering that the Nicolson now remained hoist, were inclined to think that they had chosen the better part, the putting off of a small boat from the German craft fitted with scum and with what they needed, little imagination to recognize as bombs, made their realization what the officer proposed to do. Infuriated but rendered cunning by their plight, the cableboat—as ugly a crew as ever waited a boat's approach—aimed themselves with furnace bars, pieces of steel nearly three feet in length, and as thick as their wrists. The Germans came alongside and climbed on the deck.

Once aboard, the cableboat made a dash, and though the cableboat trusted to their firearms for a minute, there could be only one end to the struggle. Caught in the net of laying bombs in its limboed ship, they could expect no mercy from any man, and least of all from the infuriated Americans. One of two were laid out then and there. Afterwards they entered the grim and noisy chaos which puzzled both the German officer, who was now almost alongside, and the crew of the Baralong.

"The trapped Germans ran in all directions seeking safety in cabins and lavatories, only to have the doors slammed in upon them. Two men tried to find a refuge in the tunnel of the cableboat shaft. In the midst of it all the German officer and the second boat's crew came over to the side. The same fate was dealt out to them. The captain made for the bridge, no doubt in the hope that he might be saved by the commander of the Baralong. But at that moment the presence of the entire British fleet would scarcely have saved him from the rage of the cableboat. Two fireboats were tied to his foot and he was thrown overboard. Then, after a slaughter, to which one of the writers of "The Wrecker," alone could do justice, the avengers stayed their hands and received the business. Like visit of an officer from the Baralong."

"This is not the time at which to discuss the rights and wrongs of the action of the cableboat. Humanly speaking, it is not to be asserted that any man of any nationality would not have fought for their lives in similar circumstances. The fact that they were Americans and not Englishmen—besides knocking the bottom out of the whaling case set up by the Germans—illustrated in a manner that will cause a thrill of satisfaction through the states that the resolution of American policy at this moment does not reflect the spirit of at least some citizens of that huge republic."

"Afterwards, on land, the fear of being prosecuted, doubtless instilled into them by German agents, and the ever-ready temptation of the same gentleman no doubt smoothed the way for the curious and wholly untested German version of this mid-ocean struggle. The time will come when the participants in this tragedy will be glad to explain away their own modesty in not claiming full credit for what they did."

"WALL STREET STORIES"

The visitor in New York City who pauses in front of Trinity Church and looks eastward down the narrow defile between the cliff-like rows of office-buildings may well feel a wondering disappointment. "Is this Wall Street?" he exclaims blankly. It is—and yet it is not. For Wall Street has ceased to be a topographical expression. It is a figure of speech. The true Wall Street is at once a battleground, a snug harbor, a lure to the unwary, a treasure island, a jungle—in fact, a miniature cosmos, with a unique and highly developed life of its own. Of the many attempts to portray it in fiction, Mr. Edwin Lefevre's "Wall Street Stories," just published by the Harpers, remains the most vivid, actual, vital presentation of the most exciting and fascinating "game" in the world.

Each of the stories might easily be a transcript from actual life—such as would come under the eye of the author during his years of newspaper work in the financial district. We meet a host of typical and yet highly individual characters—the bewildered widow with her savings, the ruthless giant of finance, the shabby upstart, fresh-cheeked messenger-boys soon to be lured themselves into the doleful mazes of speculation—rocket-like careers, disasters overnight, manipulators big and little, greed or avarice—truth and falsehood ever a hopeless jumble in the rumors and gossip that are the breath of the "Street." Never was a more fertile field offered to the writer of fiction. Tragedy, comedy, adventure, farce, and romance—all evolve as naturally from Wall Street as water bubbles from a spring, and dominant over them all is the great, eternal theme—the pursuit of Fortune, the golden game of chance.

There is a refreshing variety in the stories which Mr. Lefevre has to tell. No two are alike, although the Stock Exchange invades them all, and from some corner is constantly heard the sordid chatter of the ticker. Collectively, they form the best picture of Wall Street thus far attempted in literature. Indeed, and may gain from Mr. Lefevre's book a clearer understanding of Wall Street and its ways than from many a serious volume which purports to deal with this subject.

Surrounding towns kindly note that Portsmouth is willing to send the flying squad to your assistance in case of fire danger, but that doesn't mean that the buzz apparatus can be called just to give you a chance to see how fast it can go.

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take a Glass of Salts if your Back hurts or Bladder both—Meat forms uric acid.

If you must have meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush out the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a teaspoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

WILSON OUTLINES HIS COURSE

Boston, March 3.—Washington special to New York American says: President Wilson is said to have started to more than one member of Congress called into council with him that in event of sinking of an armed belligerent merchantman upon which there may happen to be an American citizen, he will instantly send Ambassador von Bernstorff his passports. Men versed in diplomatic affairs agree that the suspension of diplomatic intercourse with Germany would inevitably result in war.

Unconditional withdrawal of the new U-boat order will, it is now believed, be the terms which President Wilson will dictate to Germany as soon as appendices to the German note are received. The President, it is declared, is convinced that any other stand would be a capitulation to Germany and repudiation of international law.

MINUTES IN MANHATTAN

Speaking of superlatives, did you know that New York is the greatest banqueting city in the world? It is a poor winter night when several hundred elaborate dinners are held in our hotels and big clubs of New York. Just at present New York is even more so than usual. Hotel managers estimate the increase in public dining over the usual season at 20 to 50 per cent. They base the figures on the demands made upon them. The ballroom at certain famous hostilities are engaged many months in advance. Big hotels sometimes report total banqueting accommodations all full for a month ahead.

And New York maitres d'hotel are not abashed by tall orders either. For instance a certain well known hotel on Longacre Square, recently had six affairs of the first magnitude under way at the same moment.

In the grand ball room the National Silk Association dined and wined; the New York University Alumni made merry in the north ball room; a rival college attraction was the dinner of the Lehigh University Alumni in the east ball room; a nation Greek letter society dispersed itself in the ballroom, while in the west vaults, Company K of the Seventh Regiment tasted rations somewhat more sumptuous than called for by regulations.

The average banquet costs $6 to $10 a plate including wine and flairs, but $200 per head would be necessary to cover the bill of a group of directors one night recently.

The food was all that could be desired, wines were old and mellow and the entertainment was something never set before diners in the history of banqueting from the days of the famous Lucullus down.

For the directors were in attendance at five New York theatres simultaneously. This was a surprise to them in the middle of each table, hidden by roses, were concealed megaphones, connected by telephone with the stages of the five theatres.

Each guest found before him the programs for the five theatres, with a time schedule. They had only to indicate their choice and the entertainment was turned on, as easy as a waiter filling up a champagne glass.

A well known star poured her mercurial into the directors' ears, a moment later a grand opera favorite sang in their midst, and a black-face artist cut some quips for their benefit.

The rescue squad of the fire department has just turned its first year and has already built up a remarkable record.

Due largely to Robert M. Mainzer, stock broker and celebrated "bull," eleven men and their captain, John J. McMillan, are now ready twenty-four hours in the day at the engine house in Great Jones street for unique service.

They have a large motor car which carries an acetylene torch for cutting through steel, pulmotors for rescue work, stretchers, smoke helmets with oxygen cylinders, a life gun, fire extinguishers and axes.

While the members of the squad insist they have not yet had a real good chance to show what they can do, they have performed several notable feats. They have fought the fumes of sulphur chloride, a substance used on the battlefields of Europe. A large drum of this chemical in a cellar sprung a leak and was giving off deadly fumes. No one could approach it until the rescue squad arrived.

They put on their helmets, entered the cellar and hoisted the drum to the street where they emptied the contents into carboys. Parts of their clothing were eaten off, their hands were burned and the nickel badges of their helmets disappeared, but they stuck to the job and saw it through.

In several ships they have cut through the steel of the hulls and saved thousands of dollars to shipowners. They have proved especially useful in fighting drug and chemical warehouse fires and on several occasions have rescued alive horses that have slipped through metal gratings, and have revived would-be gas suicides.

The men have become the heroes of the department and their places are coveted by the ordinary fire fighter.

At the time of the disastrous fire in the subway when one woman was killed and about a hundred persons were overcome, the rescue squad had not yet come into existence. The members say that if such a situation ever arose again they would handle it in style.

When, as often has happened, firemen fall unconscious in burning buildings, or an iron door slams shut on them and locks them in with the flames, it is the function of the rescue squad to blaze a way through steel, brick and smoke to their relief.

WITH THE SPORTS

New York, March 3.—Terry Turner has been in the big leagues for 12 years. Only once has he hit over 300. His grand average for those 12 seasons is around 260, yet Turner ranks as one of the most dangerous hitters in the game, simply because he has almost the uncanny knack of exuding safe blows in critical moments.

With the bases unoccupied, the chances of Turner hitting a "where they ain't" are almost nil. But put a man on any of the sacks, and then send "Cotton Top" to the plate. What happens? Well, ask the bulk of pitchers who have worked against Turner in the years that have gone.

"Turner has the marvelous power of hitting just when his score runs or advances the base runner," ejaculated "Wild Bill" Donovan, a brief spell back. And if anybody ought to know who's who in baseball, it's this Donovan person who spent the major portion of his boyhood and young manhood in the same league where Turner operates now.

An Unsung Hero

Turner's great work as a diamond athlete has been appreciated less than that of any other man who has trod the national pastime. This season marks his 13th as a big tent showman, yet little comment is made over it. Only a few men such as Wagner, Mathewson, Crawford, Lajoie, Tinker, Evers, Brown and Plank have exhibited over a longer sweep of years. Each of those have made the hero of a thousand stories; each has had his praises sung from one corner of the land to the other.

But "Cotton Top" Turner, brilliant and always reliable, has been overlooked. Probably the reason for it is that practically all of Turner's big league life has been lived with a team that never has figured in a world series; an outfit that only twice has been conspicuously among the pennant battles, since the American League was organized.

Turner was rescued from the bushes back in 1901 by the Cleveland club, after he had been turned back by the Pirates. Right from the start, he performed. In a spectacular manner and on the bases. Other shortstops, such as Wagner, Maraville, Tinker, Bush, Barry and Fletcher have executed seemingly impossible plays—have killed drives that looked like sure hits, but none of them exceeded the feats of "Turner in the field."

Brilliant Feats Afield

The blood in Turner's early operations in the fielding line made him a sensation. Every day—and sometimes twice and three times a day—he made stops and throws from difficult angles that brought a frenzy of cheers even from hostile stands. He was like a flash of lightning. He dug the balls out of the clouds, grabbed them to the left or right—and always got his man.

In time Turner became known as "The Base-Hit Murderer." Turner afterward was shifted to third base. Then he played second, later going to the outfield for a while, and returning to his old job at shortstop. Everywhere he played his work was far above par; in each new position he was placed he gave further evidence of his all-around ballfield skill.

Old—But Still Wonderful

Added years, of course, have reduced some of Turner's youthful speed; they have taken away some of the agility that enabled him to cover 62 acres of ground, and they have lessened slightly the power in the arm that once shot a ball across the field with bullet-like velocity.

Turner is growing old; he's 34 now, but his work last year, was almost as wonderful as in any other year of his career. He batted for .282—a mark he found that of the bulk of infielders. He finished near the top in fielding both second and third base and in every department of the game his record bespoke class.

The veteran is the nucleus around which the new Cleveland club is to be built. Upon Turner will devolve a great part of the work of touching the young infielders who to do and how to do it. And there is none better, because, in addition to being one of the greatest mechanical players the game has produced, Turner also is one of the braviest.

TIPS FOR BUSY MAIDS ON MATRIMONIAL HUNT

Girls who wish to exercise their Leap Year rights during the matrimonial hunting season, should heed the following advice if they propose marriage. Busy maidens can select good husbands by following the rules:

"Don't propose to a man who has thin lips. He will scorn you."

"Don't propose to a man whose head runs straight up from the back of his neck. He loves neither home nor wife."

"Don't propose to a man with a super-critical eye. He'll make you sorry."

"Don't propose to a man who has a quiet, restrained, indifferent manner or a purely selfish disposition."

"Propose to a man who has full, but not too full lips. He will love you."

"Propose to a man who has a good-sized bump at the base of his head. He's a good family man and loves wife and home."

"If you love a man who has a twinkle in his eye, propose to him; You'll get him."

"If you love a man who has a frank, open manner, you'll probably get him too."

"If you want a money-maker, get one whose forehead is broad and square and long. He will bring home the cash every time."

HOUSE BACKING PRESIDENT WILSON.

New York Herald says that careful poll of the House shows that of 393 members who have made their position known, 161 favor adoption of a resolution warning Americans off merchant men defensively armed, while 142 are opposed. Twenty members are in favor of some sort of compromise, 32 are opposed to any action at all by the House. 50 are doubtful or non-committal. No warning resolution can pass the Senate. It cannot command upwards of 20 votes.

The Herald contains both the latest foreign and local news.

Boston, March 2.—It was reported today that government officials have already visited the Boston City Hospital and are visiting hospitals on the entire Atlantic seaboard to consult with the hospital authorities as to what they could do on short notice to take care of large numbers of wounded in the event of war. This is part of the preparedness program of the government.

Major Curley said today he was informed that army officers and other government officials have visited the city and other Boston hospitals.

NAVY TO KEEP THE PROMISE OF LINCOLN

Washington, March 2.—President Lincoln's promise made more than a half century ago to John Driscoll of Hampton, Va., said to be the oldest living survivor of the battle between the Monitor and the Merrimack, during the civil war, is about to be carried out by the navy department.

After the naval engagement President Lincoln summoned the crew of the Monitor, of which Driscoll was a member, to Washington. He thanked them for their valor and said if any of them ever wanted a favor it would only be necessary to ask it.

It was not until recently, however, that Driscoll decided to ask the proffered favor. He requested to be taken aboard a battleship going through the Panama canal, which he said he longed to see before he died. Arrangements for the trip have just been completed, and the next warship which passes through the great water way, will carry the aged veteran as a passenger.

WORK OF COMMITTEES REGARDING THE ARMY.

Washington, March 2.—Finishing touches today were being put on the bill to increase the army by the house military committee, with prospects that a final vote on the measure would be reached before adjournment.

Before the final vote, however, a new effort was to be made to make the maximum peace strength of the regular army 200,000.

Under this plan it is proposed to authorize the president to bring the army up to the full strength at any time without special act of congress.

Another provision already incorporated in the bill would provide for a far-reaching industrial and technical reserve for the fighting lines in war time. This reserve would include practically every profession or occupation whose services would be useful to the army.

While the house committee was completing its task the senate committee was having printed its plan for federalizing the National Guard and was ready for a final review of the bill.

North Church, Sunday, 7.30 P. M.*The Mission of "The Master"

Address by Rev. C. F. Hill Crathem, "Christ in Art."

Address and Presentation of His Painting, "The Master," by Mr. Darius Cobb.

The painting is a portrait of "The Christ," entitled "The Master," and is regarded by the press and public as one of the greatest of modern masterpieces. The artist is Darius Cobb, of Boston, whose historical paintings have a national renown and who spent more than thirty years upon his masterpiece. The Mission of "The Master" was a real benediction to the twelve hundred or more who crowded our church. I believe it was a service of real spiritual value that could be repeated with profit in all our cities.—Rev. Oliver Huckel, D. D., Baltimore, Md.

The Mission of "The Master" was one of the most impressive services ever held in our church.—Rev. Frederic T. Rouse, D. D., First Congregational Church, Omaha, Neb.

POLICE COURT.

George Wolf and William Webber, two sailors nearly caused a riot at Freeman's hall on Thursday night. George and Bill were out to put a little red hue on the town and incidentally drink a few high ones to the health of the Kaiser. Some ladies complained to the police that George and Bill were somewhat obnoxious in the carnival hall and Officer Anderson told them both to cut out the comedy. They forgot what the cop said and continued to keep in the limelight. Finally the officer grabbed Wolf and Webber and started to grab the cop. They mixed it up right away. Patrolmen Kelley and Phillips put in an appearance on the scene and the husky salt water men became more calm at the sight of the reinforcements. Today they forgot, and dined it all but it cost Wolf $19.15 and Webber got away on $17.35. Clerk Trueman receipted for the full amount.

George Coleman who claimed Providence as his home was heard on a charge of breaking and entering and larceny at the offices of Dr. W. O. Jenkins and Attorney Harold M. Smith. He pleaded guilty and was held for the superior court in May. He failed to secure bonds of $100 and was sent to jail.

THE D. F. BORTHWICK STORE*WASHINGTON WILL GO IN RESERVE

Part of Her Crew Will Go to the U. S. S. Tacoma.

The U. S. S. Washington will go in reserve at the navy yard on March 15. A good part of her crew will go to the U. S. S. Tacoma which has been held here for four months waiting for a full crew. This will leave the Washington with a skeleton crew numbering less than 300 men. The vessel from the present outlook will be at the navy yard not less than six months for the much needed overhaul. A few of the new torpedo boats will also get a detachment from the Washington.

THE HERALD HEARS

That a horse owned by the American Express Company is always on time to begin work even if his driver is not.

That the employees of the stable where he is kept, harassed him as usual a few days ago and left him standing in the yard to await the driver.

That the driver did not show up at the regular hour, seven o'clock and the horse quietly moved along through the several streets to the company's office at the railroad station.

That he stopped at the platform in the rear of the building as he is accustomed to do at the beginning of the day's work and waited for orders.

That the Walker estate on Sagamore avenue is being cut up and sold for house lots.

That two well known local men recently went to Boston for the purchase of an auto.

That they have reason not to forget the trip in a hurry.

That they paid the cash for the machine and started back over the road to Portsmouth.

That they had all kinds of trouble along the line.

That the cops thought the car stolen and pinched them both at Chelsea.

That they were obliged to put up bail money for their appearance the following day in court and $11 to the bail commissioner.

That they also had to pay for a night at the hotel and some eats.

That the cops tried to force a change of operating without a license and proper registration.

That the judge when he heard the case ordered them released as he thought they had been treated enough.

That several local teamsters will do business with auto trucks the coming summer.

That a man comparing himself with his neighbor has never been known to give himself the worst of it.

That it looks like a lot of new faces in the Sunset League this summer.

That town warrants are ripe.

That a man up to the age of 40 is often stirred by the pleasant moonlight, but after that the moon only aids him to get around at night without a candle or lantern.

That Lent comes in next week.

That three of Portsmouth's young sports are not so friendly with some of the Kittery boys since they captured the queens on the other side of the river.

That the girls say it was the evening dress rig that captivated them, but they are wondering how one of the Portsmouth boys ever got in and out of the glad rags and that it must have been necessary to etherize him for the operation.

That a local florist expects a rush on the night that one of the Little Bowers A. C. sings that solo.

That Police Officer Smart is now covering the bank work at night.

That the backbone of winter will be broken sometime—perhaps by July 1.

I WONDER

If the weather man will behave any better in March than he did in February?

When that illuminated sign with the Portsmouth slogan will be put in place?

Who will go to the next New Hampshire legislature and free the Portsmouth and Kittery bridge from toll?

Why the Spanish transport did not come to Portsmouth for the Spanish dead; it would certainly make the transportation charges a great deal less?

If the new school house question will not put some pep in the next town meeting at Kittery?

When the "gay white way" will be lighted?

If the Skoe club who take Hampton Beach, Dover and Newmarket in during the summer season, will fall for the men's styles recommended by fashion dictators and put on the pale pink corsets?

How those Kittery boys like the moonlight Sunday night hikes back from York?

If that young lady ever dug up her handsome hat which went into the South mill pond off the Junkins avenue bridge?

If the public works will collect water bills on the new meter system?

How many of the public works employees got an increase in salary, made by the board recently?

If the remainder of Daniel street will be paved after the new Army and Navy Home is erected?

What good will-power is to a man when his wife has a lot of won't-power?

What's the use of howling about the high cost of living when one can get a dozen chestnuts for a dime and 1200 worms.

When women get the right to vote and run things will they arrange to put a stop to rainy Sundays?

Why a man will do more hunting for a half smoked cigar than he will for a dollar bill.
